Will Nolan began the meeting at 1:00 pm by having everyone in the room introduce themselves. All attendees were present except for the designers who were present virtually via teams. After introductions, Will gave the disclaimer that questions asked in this meeting would be answered to the best of our ability however official responses would be posted. Will also stated that the intent of this meeting was for further plan clarification and nothing discussed in this meeting would override or supersede the plans. At this point, Will turned the meeting over to Travis Baker with AECOM. Mr. Baker began by giving an overview of the project then proceeded to explain the uniqueness of certain aspects of the repairs. The proximity of to the railroad, challenges with the river and construction access, as well as existing utility location and coordination were discussed. Mr. Baker went through each sheet of the plans pointing out critical elements on those sheets and areas that may be different than a standard bridge repair job. Questions were asked throughout the explanation and were recorded for official posting. Once the explanation and review was complete and no one had further questions, the list of questions was read back to ensure no questions were missed. The meeting ended at approximately 2:00 pm.
